

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Global Aerospace Underwriting Managers (Canada) Limited is pleased to announce that Graham Marshall will be joining as Vice President - Underwriting in early summer of 2008. Graham's 30+ years of Aviation Insurance Market experience include many years focused entirely on Canadian business. He has travelled extensively in Canada visiting a wide variety of operators and for many years has been an active attendee and contributor at major Canadian Aviation industry functions including the Air Transport Association of Canada, the Helicopter Association of Canada and the Northern Air Transport Association. He is also an Associate of the Chartered Insurance Institute and a Chartered Insurance Practitioner. Graham's background and experience will be a welcomed addition to our organization and will enable Global to further enhance its service and expertise in the Canadian aviation insurance industry.

Global Aerospace is the world's leading aviation insurer and provides underwriting and claims expertise from its worldwide headquarters in London, England. Our Canadian operation is located in Markham, Ontario and is part of our network with six offices in the United States and one in Switzerland. Global Aerospace Underwriting Managers (Canada) Limited and its predecessors have been servicing the insurance needs of all sectors of the Canadian aviation industry for over 65 years.

Global Aerospace underwrites on behalf of some of the world's largest and most secure insurers and reinsurers including some of the strongest names in the business. Together, they provide our clients with excellent security.

(AvInDirect Note: We also understand that Graham's wife, Deborah Moore, has been appointed as President or some such for Lloyds Canada. She is the former insurance buyer for Canadian Airlines in Calgary and was recently something to do with Lloyds International in London.

Is Ken Coombes coming too, Graham?)
